THE MANIFESTO OF TRIPLE “A” WINE PRODUCERS

Written and drafted by Luca Gargano in July 2001

To make great wine, each producer must possess three essential qualities, summarized in the three “A”s of:

“A” AS AGRICOLTORI

Only those who personally cultivate the vineyard can establish a correct relationship between man and vine, producing healthy and ripe grapes solely through natural agronomic interventions.

“A” AS ARTIGIANI

Craftsmanship and skill are necessary to carry out a viticultural and oenological production process that does not alter the original structure of the grape, nor the wine.

“A” AS ARTISTI

Only the “artistic” sensitivity of a producer, who respects his work and ideas, can create a great wine that highlights the characteristics of the terroir and the grape variety.

THE TEN COMMANDMENTS

Triple “A” wines can only be born:

- 1) From a manual selection of future vines, for true mass selection.
- 2) From farmers who cultivate the vineyards without using synthetic chemical substances, respecting the vine and its natural cycles.
- 3) From grapes harvested at physiological maturity and perfectly healthy.
- 4) From musts to which no sulfur dioxide or other additives are added.
Sulfur dioxide may only be added in minimal quantities at bottling.
- 5) Using only indigenous yeasts and excluding selected yeasts.
- 6) Without chemical or physical interventions before and during alcoholic fermentation, other than simple temperature control.
(Any form of concentration using any method is strictly prohibited).
- 7) Maturing on their own “fine lees” until bottling.
- 8) Without correcting any chemical parameters.
- 9) Without clarifying or filtering before bottling.
- 10) From the best expression of the terroir to which they belong.
